With usage of Internet witnessing a steep rise in the country, thanks to the mobile revolution, there is a spurt in cyber crime where Maharashtra leads the pack of registered cases, as per National Crime Records Bureau (NCRB). Ironically, the current laws are highly inadequate to curb the menace due to lack of awareness among police and public, and absence of qualified cyber forensic experts.

retain their custody till date. Q. You also helped in cracking rave party case where a college girl died after falling in swimming pool.

A. Our investigation helped the cops declare the teenager's death accidental. We helped them retrieve data from DVR files of CCTV cameras at the farm house where the incident took place. The party was arranged by students. Earlier, the cops suspected some boys. The CCTV footage clearly established that girl was heavily intoxicated and fell into the pool after losing balance where she suffered a head injury. That many such illegal parties were
